THE CHINESE TREATY.

Now that the full text of the new Chinese treaty has been given to the public, it does not appear as favorable, and there begin to develop reasons that cause us to modify a previously expressed judgment. It would seem that the property clause is loosely drawn, and will admit of all manner of fraud. We had supposed that proof would be required of something more than ownership of a certificate of deposit in a bank, or of debts due the claimant. If possession at the time of application of $1,000 cash is to be sufficient to entitle a Chinaman to a return certificate, one purse of $1,000 will be sufficient to secure certificates for all the Chinese in California. It is true that the return certificate can be so drawn and guarded that it will be with great difficulty that any but the real owner, in whose name it is issued, can use it—as, for instance, by photographing the applicant's face upon the duplicate kept by the Collector at the port of departure. But the treaty does not provide that the holder of the certificate must return, if at all, to the port from which he departed. Again, there is absence of a provision that we had assumed, as a matter of course, would be found in the treaty, namely, a clause requiring a certificate claimant to show to the satisfaction of the Collector of the port that he had the necessary qualifications to entitle him to a certificate. But the second article of the treaty simply provides that the claimant shall file with the Collector a paper containing a description of $1,000 worth of property, or debts due, or a description of his family left behind. Of course as the treaty now stands it is fatally defective, unless it be held that legislation can be had to strengthen it, in the matter of proofs of right to a certificate, proofs of identity of the holder of a certificate on return, etc. The telegraphic dispatches announce that the Pacific Coast delegation in Congress is not pleased with the treaty and do not believe it will effect the purpose it is claimed to foster. On the other hand Judge Hoffman, of the United States District Court at San Francisco, gives it as his opinion that the treaty will prove a great benefit, and operate to exclude the very class of Chinese people wish shut out. But we judge that the jury has seen, when he expressed that opinion, only the synopsis of the treaty text first sent. Certainly the three sections now telegraphed in full are disappointing, and unless very materially modified by a new Convention will do the Administration no credit, and will meet with the opposition of the Pacific coast Representatives in Congress. Mr. Bayard will scarcely be able at this late day to negotiate a new treaty, and Mr. Cleveland will thus go before the country apologizing for the failure of the Democracy to keep its pledge and give the country a satisfactory treaty with China.

THE NEW EMPEROR.

Unless the world greatly mistakes the purposes of Emperor Frederick of Germany, he intends, if his life is spared, to be the most liberal ruler the Germans have ever had. One of the best evidences is the opposition already manifested by the radical aristocrats. There is in Germany to-day, as in the heart of every monarch of Europe, the seed of democracy, and it may develop the fruit of republicanism in time. Frederick is far-seeing enough to realize this truth, and wise enough not to throw himself rashly upon its bristling points. It will give no serious trouble to imperialism in his day, even if his life is greatly extended, but it cannot be crushed out, and Frederick knows it. Hence he favors every domestic reform it is possible for an imperial power to grant and retain its own. He knows that Germany's strength is best husbanded by internal quiet and the largest liberty of the people consistent with the existence of the empire as such. Judging Emperor Frederick by his expressions, the conduct of his life, and the studies he has voluntarily pursued, he will, if his life is extended to the limit of the ordinary lease, prove to be a statesman, such as his father was not, and one that Bismarck will not so easily control, and one, moreover, who will command more of the German heart in his support—since the Liberals will stand by him—that even William. The latter, by reason of his military prowess and his great achievement the unification of the German States, was revered by the German people; but as his Liberal lives, will be honored as the Liberal Emperor statesman. Every indication points to this, and the tendency of the age will carry him in that direction, which, happily, is also in line with his inclination. Czarism is not at all to his liking; there is nothing of the despotic in his character, his whole thought runs in the opposite direction. He is broad-minded enough to know that while peace may be preserved by powerful arms, a sincere and better peace is maintained by internal content, and that it will be his aim to conserve a resolution he took, by the way long ago, and which his whole conduct as a man has shown he cherishes devoutly.

Downfall of Bossism.

Oakland and Sacramento are the most overwhelmingly Republican cities in California, yet they have both gone Democratic. This result is claimed as a sure precursor of the Democratic success to follow. Never was there a greater mistake. It means nothing of the kind. What it does mean, is that local politics bosses are to be rebuked wherever it exists. It has happened that in the two cities in which elections have first taken place, it existed on the Republican side, and there it has been rebuked unmistakably and gloriously. But the rebuking has not yet all been accomplished. It has still to be heard from in the centers in which the Democracy hold sway, and we mistake the signs, or there will be such a shaking up of the dry bones as was never witnessed before.—S. F. News Letter.

Letter from the State Board of Trade.

The following letter from the State Board of Trade has been sent to the several local Boards from which it is comprised:

CALIFORNIA STATE BOARD OF TRADE, SAN FRANCISCO, March 21, 1888.

The Executive Board, on March 21st, yesterday, directed the Secretary to communicate with the local Boards regarding the National Fair, to be held in Sacramento, and desire to entertain the teachers if they desire to be present at the fair. The East should be given an opportunity to exhibit in connection with this Board, and those who should be present are invited to apply. Please answer at your earliest convenience.

A Lesson and Example.

The entire Democratic municipal ticket in Sacramento was elected Tuesday. The decent Republicans helped do the good work. The bosses must go. San Francisco should follow Sacramento's example and strangle the bosses.—Placer Herald (*D*em.)

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.*POLICE COURT.

The Cases Before Judge Buckley Yes-terday.

Outside of the case of William Farley, charged with illegal voting, there was not much of interest before Judge Buckley yes-terday morning.

S. Kingbury pleaded guilty to having disturbed the peace and was ordered to appear for sentence on Saturday.

Fred Holland was tried on a charge of petit larceny preferred by M. McKenna.

The evidence showed that a canary bird belonging to Mr. McKenna had escaped or been let out of a cage at his home on the corner of Seventh and I streets, and that he had Hollander brought to him.

Hollander's sister, Mrs. E. G. De-fendant stated that she did not know if the bird belonged to Mr. McKenna, and would have returned it to him after he found out that it did, but for the fact that his sister had taken the bird's liberty and he could catch it again. On this statement he was discharged.

Bridge White and Catherine Pennington were arraigned on charges of disturbing the peace and the cases set for trial this morning.

John Kelly appeared in the prisoners dock under the name of Fritz Krueken-kin, charged with having been drunk.

He denied a most dismal appearance, his countenance being covered with red and black paint, evidently put on by some artist who had experience among the Indians. He pleaded guilty, and stated that this was his first offense and was discharged.

The case of George Berger, charged with battery, was continued until April 4th, on account of the inability of the complainant—who is the wife of the defendant—to be present.

The Berger Troubles.

George Berger was arrested yesterday on a complaint filed at Rocklin, Placer county, charging him with felony. The charge grows out of an alleged assault upon his mother-in-law, Mrs. Kate Johnson, at her home about one mile from Loomis, Berger having been drunk at the time.

He was held without bail, and was to be at the County Jail, and was to be present as follows:

On the 7th of September, 1882, James Turner was committed to the County Jail by Justice J. C. Tubbs, on a charge of petit larceny.

November 14, 1882, James Turner com-menced to serve a term of thirty days for illegal voting. The sentence in this case was by Judge W. A. Henry. It was after this that he was first arrested and was discharged.

The case of George Berger, charged with battery, was continued until April 4th, on account of the inability of the complainant—who is the wife of the defendant—to be present.

ILLEGAL VOTING.*JAMES TURNER AND HIS PAST RECORD.

William Farley Discharged—Cases to Come Up To-Day—Gibson's Trial.

James Turner was tried before Justice of the Peace C. N. Post, yesterday afternoon, and held to answer in the Superior Court to the charges of felony, in having voted illegally at the late election. The complaining witness was B. Lucy, who testified that the prisoner voted at the polling-place at Third and K streets, under the name of James Turner. The name appeared upon the Great Register, but the man appeared to be much older than the age given in the Register. His vote was challenged, and he swore that he resided at the Brooklyn Hotel, on Front street, between K and L streets, John Mooney proprietor. He afterwards arrested the man and took him down to the Brooklyn Hotel, and Mr. Mooney said he did not live there, and he never had seen him there, whereupon he took him to the County Jail.

Nash testified that he was a challenger at the polls above mentioned, and challenged Turner's vote. He swore it in, saying, among other things, that he was 45 years old, and that he had been registered to have been born in 1839. He arrested the man, but the prisoner was taken away from him by Jimmy Dwyer, Nick Dolan and others.

Mr. Mooney, proprietor of the Brooklyn Hotel, said that Turner never lived at his hotel.

J. C. Kelly, a judge at the election, corroborated the statements of the other witness, and the trial was adjourned.

County Clerk Hamilton produced the Great Register, and referred to the original entry, which showed that Turner was registered on the 20th of October, 1882.

After Turner had been held to answer he stated to the District Attorney that he was very drunk on election day and was induced by others to vote. Besides, he said, he had been drinking all night, and was feasted, when he wished to leave.

He stated that he had been in the County Jail for being drunk, and that he never slept in a house in the rooming house.

Said he was a tramp, and when he was in the city he slept around the barges on the city front.

A Recom-Un reporter hunted up his record at the County Jail, and found it to be as follows:

On the 7th of September, 1882, James Turner was committed to the County Jail by Justice J. C. Tubbs, on a charge of petit larceny.

November 14, 1882, James Turner com-menced to serve a term of thirty days for illegal voting. The sentence in this case was by Judge W. A. Henry. It was after this that he was first arrested and was discharged.

The case of George Berger, charged with battery, was continued until April 4th, on account of the inability of the complainant—who is the wife of the defendant—to be present.

The case of William Farley, charged with illegal voting, came up before Judge

McClatchy and was dismissed on motion of the prosecution.

W. A. Anderson appeared as counsel for defendant.

E. H. McKee, City Auditor and ex officio Clerk of the Board of Trustees, was the first to identify the voter. The records of the proceedings of the Board on the 10th of February, ordering the recent city election, fixing the polling places, and appointing inspectors and judges. There was an election held on the 13th of March, and witness at that election. Anderson identified the poll-list used at the First Precinct on that day, which was returned to him with the ballot-box on the night of the election.

THE CORRECT TIME.

There are few men who do not pride themselves on always having the correct time; and wonderful and delicate means are used to insure accuracy in doing so.

But the most delicate a chronometer is made, the more subject it becomes to derangement, and unless it is kept always perfectly clean, it soon loses its usefulness. What would the world think if such a chronometer were not better than mud, the most reliable, mischievous or uncertain thing as the result of his appointment?

Lord Stanley, responding, said that his endeavor would be to bring about between Canada and the United Kingdom the closest and most intimate relations.
